

ABSTRACT

A hair clipper protective and identifying cap that is used to cover the cutting portion of a standard hair clipper.

- 5 The protective cap is shaped to accommodate the cutting portion of the hair clipper. The bottom edge of the cap has a lip that allows the cap to be securely attached to the clippers. When the cap is properly placed over the cutting portion, the lip extends around the housing top end, at a
- 10 point just below the cutting portion. Labels are applied to the protective cap or imprinted thereon to indicate whether the clipper is clean or requires sanitizing, namely "Clean" and "Soiled".
